

PHOTONICS

R. E. Slusher
B. J. Eggleton (Eds.)

Nonlinear Photonic Crystals

Springer

3.3.4	Logic Gates using Birefringence	55
3.4	Conclusion	59
	References	60
4	Raman Gap Solitons in Nonlinear Photonic Crystals
	H.G. Winful, V.E. Perlin	61
4.1	Introduction and Brief History	61
4.2	Propagation Equations	64
4.3	Ultraslow and Stationary Raman Gap Solitons	65
4.4	Distributed-Feedback Fiber Raman Laser	69
4.5	Conclusion	70
	References	71
5	Self-transparency and Localization in Gratings with Quadratic Nonlinearity
	C. Conti, S. Trillo	73
5.1	Introduction	73
5.2	Stopbands Originating from Linear Versus Nonlinear Periodic Properties	74
5.3	Self-transparency in the Stationary Regime	79
	5.3.1 The Models	80
	5.3.2 In-gap Self-transparency	82
	5.3.3 Out-gap Dynamics in Quadratic DFBs	84
	5.3.4 Regularity Versus Disorder in Quadratic DFBs	84
5.4	Moving Solitons in the Bragg Grating	85
5.5	Moving Solitons in a Nonlinear-Gap	92
5.6	The Copropagating Case: Polarization Resonance Solitons	97
5.7	Stability of Localized Excitations	99
5.8	Conclusions and Further Developments	102
	References	103
6	Photonic Band Edge Effects in Finite Structures and Applications to $\chi^{(2)}$ Interactions
	G. D'Aguzzo, M. Centini, J.W. Haus, M. Scalora, C. Sibilia, M.J. Bloemer, C.M. Bowden, M. Bertolotti	107
6.1	Introduction	107
6.2	The PBG Structure as an "Open Cavity"; Density of Modes (DOM) and Effective Dispersion Relation	108
6.3	Group Velocity, Energy Velocity, and Superluminal Pulse Propagation	116
6.4	$\chi^{(2)}$ Interactions and the Effective Medium Approach	122
6.5	Examples: Blue and Green Light Generation	125
6.6	Frequency Down-Conversion	127
6.7	Effective Index Method	128

6.8	Equations of Motion and Pulse Propagation Formalism.....	130
6.9	Conclusions.....	136
	References.....	138
7 Theory of Parametric Photonic Crystals
P.D. Drummond, H. He..... 141
7.1	Introduction.....	141
7.2	The Parametric Gap Equations.....	143
	7.2.1 One-dimensional Maxwell Equations.....	143
	7.2.2 Bragg Grating Structure.....	144
	7.2.3 Grating Equations.....	145
	7.2.4 One-dimensional Dispersion Relation.....	146
7.3	Hamiltonian Method.....	148
	7.3.1 Linear Part of the Hamiltonian and Mode Expansion....	149
	7.3.2 Transverse Modes.....	150
	7.3.3 Longitudinal Modes.....	151
7.4	The Effective Mass Approximation.....	153
	7.4.1 Nonlinear Part of the Hamiltonian.....	154
7.5	Simulton Solutions.....	156
	7.5.1 Higher Dimensional Solutions.....	158
	7.5.2 Stability.....	160
	7.5.3 The EMA and Stability.....	161
	7.5.4 Material Group Velocity Mismatch.....	161
	7.5.5 Higher Dimensional Stability.....	162
7.6	Conclusions.....	162
	References.....	164

Part II Nonlinear Fiber Grating Experiments

8 Nonlinear Propagation in Fiber Gratings
B.J. Eggleton, R.E. Slusher..... 169
8.1	Introduction.....	169
8.2	Linear Properties of Fiber Bragg Gratings.....	171
	8.2.1 Fiber Bragg Gratings.....	171
	8.2.2 Polarization Properties of Fiber Bragg Gratings.....	175
8.3	Nonlinear Properties of Fiber Bragg Gratings.....	177
	8.3.1 Nonlinear Coupled Mode equations.....	177
	8.3.2 Bragg Solitons.....	179
	8.3.3 Modulational Instability.....	181
	8.3.4 Nonlinear Polarization Effects.....	181
8.4	Experimental Apparatus.....	183
8.5	Experimental Results.....	186
	8.5.1 Linear Regime.....	186

8.5.2	Fundamental Soliton Regime	188
8.5.3	Modulational Instability Experiments	192
8.5.4	Nonlinear Polarization Dependent Propagation Experiments	193
8.6	Conclusions and Future Directions	197
	References	198
9	Gap Solitons Experiments within the Bandgap of a Nonlinear Bragg Grating
	N.G.R. Broderick	201
9.1	Introduction	201
9.2	Experimental Observation of Nonlinear Switching in an 8cm Long Fibre Bragg Grating	202
9.2.1	Characterisation of an All-optical Grating Based AND Gate	205
9.2.2	Discussion of Early Results	208
9.3	Switching Experiments in Long Gratings	208
9.3.1	Results for a 20cm Long Fibre Grating	208
9.3.2	Switching in a 40cm long Fibre Grating	212
9.3.3	Discussion of Results	213
9.4	Nonlinear Effects in AlGaAs Gratings	214
9.5	Discussion and Conclusions	217
	References	218
10	Pulsed Interactions in Nonlinear Fiber Bragg Gratings
	M.J. Steel, N.G.R. Broderick	221
10.1	Introduction	221
10.2	Mathematical Description	222
10.2.1	Linear Properties	223
10.2.2	Nonlinear Effects	225
10.3	Elements of Optical Pulse Compression	228
10.3.1	Conventional Pulse Compression	229
10.3.2	Compression in Fiber Bragg Gratings	229
10.4	XPM Compression in Fiber Gratings: The Optical Pushbroom ..	229
10.4.1	Transmitted Field	231
10.4.2	Minimum Power Requirements	232
10.5	Experimental Results	233
10.5.1	CW Switching	235
10.5.2	Pulsed Experiments: Realizing the Optical Pushbroom ..	236
10.5.3	Backward-Propagating Pushbrooms	238
10.5.4	Discussion on Experimental Results	239
10.6	Parametric Amplification in Fiber Gratings	240
10.6.1	Material Dispersion	240

10.6.2	Grating-Assisted Continuous	241
	Wave Frequency Conversion	241
10.6.3	Pulsed Parametric Amplification	243
10.6.4	Results of the Full System	244
10.6.5	Mechanism for Gain	247
10.7	Discussion	250
	References	250

Part III Novel Nonlinear Periodic Systems

11 Chalcogenide Glasses

G. Lenz, S. Spälter		255
11.1	Introduction	255
11.2	General Considerations	256
11.3	Chalcogenide Glass	259
11.4	Application to Pulse Compressors and Pulse Train Generators	263
11.5	Conclusions	266
	References	266

12 Optical Properties of Microstructure Optical Fibers

J.K. Ranka, A.L. Gaeta		269
12.1	Introduction	269
12.2	Microstructure Optical Fibers	270
12.3	Optical Properties	272
12.4	Nonlinear Interactions and Visible Continuum Generation	275
12.5	Numerical Analysis	279
12.6	Application and Measurement	282
12.7	Conclusion	283
	References	283

13 Semiconductor Optical Amplifiers with Bragg Gratings

G.P. Agrawal, D.N. Maywar		285
13.1	Introduction	285
13.2	Active Bragg Resonances	285
	13.2.1 Semiconductor Optical Amplifiers	285
	13.2.2 Distributed Feedback	286
	13.2.3 Nonlinear Bragg Resonances	287
13.3	Optical Bistability	288
	13.3.1 Physical Origin	288
	13.3.2 Switching Characteristics	289
13.4	Theoretical Model	290
	13.4.1 Average-Gain Equation	291
	13.4.2 Analytic Solution for the Optical Power	292

13.5	Resonant-Type SOAs	293
13.6	All-Optical Signal Processing	295
13.6.1	Combinational Logic	295
13.6.2	Sequential Logic	297
13.7	Concluding Remarks	299
	References	300
14 Atomic Solitons in Optical Lattices
	S. Pötting, P. Meystre, E.M. Wright	301
14.1	Introduction	301
14.2	Nonlinear Atom Optics	302
14.3	One-dimensional Atomic Solitons	304
14.3.1	One-dimensional GPE	304
14.3.2	Dark Solitons	305
14.3.3	Bright Solitons	306
14.3.4	Gap Solitons in Optical Lattices	307
14.4	Atomic Gap Solitons	309
14.4.1	The Physical Model for a Spinor Condensate	309
14.4.2	Soliton Solutions	310
14.4.3	Soliton Properties	312
14.5	Magneto-optical Control	314
14.5.1	Manipulation Tools	314
14.5.2	Excitation and Application	315
14.6	Conclusion	316
	References	318

Part IV Spatial Solitons in Photonic Crystals

15 Discrete Solitons
	H. Eisenberg, Y. Silberberg	323
15.1	Introduction	323
15.2	Theory	324
15.2.1	Discrete Diffraction	324
15.2.2	The Diffraction Relation	326
15.2.3	Nonlinear Excitations – Discrete Solitons	328
15.2.4	Dynamics of Light in a Waveguide Array	330
15.3	Experiments	331
15.3.1	Experimental Considerations	331
15.3.2	Experimental Setup	332
15.3.3	Demonstration of Discrete Solitons	333
15.3.4	Formation of Discrete Solitons from Various Excitations	335
15.3.5	Studies of Discrete Soliton Dynamics	340
15.3.6	Self-Defocusing Under Anomalous Diffraction	344

15.3.7 Interaction of a Linear Defect State with Discrete Diffraction	346
15.4 Conclusion	347
References	349
16 Nonlinear Localized Modes in 2D Photonic Crystals and Waveguides
S.F. Mingaleev, Y.S. Kivshar	351
16.1 Introduction	351
16.2 Basic Equations	353
16.3 Defect Modes: The Green Function Approach	354
16.4 Effective Discrete Equations	356
16.5 Nonlinear Waveguides in 2D Photonic Crystals	357
16.5.1 Staggered and Unstaggered Localized Modes	359
16.5.2 Stability of Nonlinear Localized Modes	361
16.6 Self-Trapping of Light in a Reduced-Symmetry 2D Nonlinear Photonic Crystal	363
16.7 Concluding Remarks	367
References	368
Index	371