

THE UK SPACE

RESOURCES, ENVIRONMENT
AND THE FUTURE

Editor
J.W.HOUSE

Contributors:
N.R.ELLIOTT
B.FULLERTON
L.W.HANNA
J.W.HOUSE
G.HUMPHRYS
R.LAWTON

ISBN 0 297 76648 1 cased

ISBN 0 297 76649 X paperback

Printed by

Redwood Press Limited

Trowbridge Wiltshire

Contents

	Page
PREFACE	xix
1 REGIONS AND THE SYSTEM	1
J. W. HOUSE
I The UK in the Post-War World	1
I.1 General Assessment	1
I.2 International Trade	2
I.3 Economy and Society	3
I.4 The Land	6
I.5 Decisions and Policies	7
II Regions: Identity, Significance and Functions	8
II.1 A Perspective on Regions	8
II.2 Types of Region	9
II.3 Region-forming/Region-disintegrating Forces	10
II.4 Flows and Linkages	11
II.5 Regional Context	12
II.6 Development Concepts	12
II.7 Economic Health and Deprivation	14
III Public Policies on the Regions	16
III.1 An Outline Assessment	16
III.2 Pre-1939 and Wartime	18
III.3 Post-war to 1960	18
III.4 Since 1960	20
III.5 New Patterns for Democracy	23
IV Economic Planning Regions and Nations	27
IV.1 Regional Strategies	27
IV.2 The Development Regions	29
IV.3 The Intermediate Regions	43
IV.4 Regions of Mixed Trends	51
IV.5 The Growth Regions	56
IV.6 A Final Note	67

2 PEOPLE AND WORKR. LAWTON

I	Introduction	75
I.1	General Context	75
I.2	Recent Demographic Trends: Some Basic Factors	77
I.3	General Population Trends, Rural and Urban	80
I.4	Effects on Population Structure	85
I.5	Population Composition and the Workforce	87
I.6	Population Trends and Social Provision	87
II	Population Distribution and Trends	89
II.1	Intraregional Contrasts	89
II.2	Regional Components of Population Change	91
II.3	Subregional Patterns of Change	94
II.4	Vital Trends	97
II.5	Migration	101
II.6	Immigration from Overseas	107
II.7	Differential Interregional Movement	112
III	Population Structure	115
III.1	Sex Ratios	115
III.2	Age Structure	117
III.3	Social Structure	120
III.4	Housing and Households	121
III.5	Educational Achievement and Personal Incomes	131
IV	The Workforce, Distribution and Daily Mobility	134
IV.1	Size and Structure of the UK Workforce	134
IV.2	Factors Influencing Regional Trends in Employment	135
IV.3	Economically Active Population	138
IV.4	Unemployment	141
IV.5	Workplace and Residence	145
IV.6	New Towns and Overspill	153

3 ENVIRONMENT AND LAND USEL. W. HANNA

I	Land Use	164
I.1	Land Utilisation Surveys	164

	Page
I.2 Land Classification	164
II Environmental Factors and Agricultural Land Use	168
II.1 Introduction	168
II.2 Measurement of the Climatic Environment	168
II.3 Influence of Climate on Agricultural Land Use and Productivity	173
II.4 The Amelioration of Climate by Man	179
II.5 Harmful Accidental Effects of Agricultural Activity	182
III Water Supply	183
III.1 Hydrology of Water Resources	183
III.2 Water Supply and Demand	186
III.3 Strategies	190
III.4 Conservation	191
IV Forests	193
IV.1 Afforestation	193
IV.2 Environmental Factors in the Productivity of Commercial Forests	194
V Urban and Industrial Land Use	197
V.1 Introduction	197
V.2 Pollution	198
V.3 Air Pollution	199
V.4 Pollution of the Land Surface	204
V.5 Water Pollution	207
VI Conservation	211
VI.1 Nature Conservation	211
VI.2 Land Use Conflicts	212
VI.3 Industrial and Urban Derelict Land	212
4 POWER AND THE INDUSTRIAL STRUCTURE	219
G. HUMPHRYS
I The Power Industries	219
I.1 Significance and Structure	219
I.2 Coal	222
I.3 Oil-refining	229
I.4 Gas	235
I.5 Electricity	242

	Page
II Industrial Structure	250
II.1 Introduction and Method	250
II.2 Structural Change	251
III Manufacturing	252
III.1 Regional Change	252
III.2 Productivity	256
III.3 Market Influences	259
III.4 Government Policy	263
III.5 Economies of Scale: Internal	265
III.6 Economies of Scale: External	268
III.7 Ownership and Control	268
IV Services	269
IV.1 Significance	269
IV.2 Flexibility of Location	270
IV.3 Changing Location	271
IV.4 Organisation and Control	272
IV.5 Public Sector Developments	273
IV.6 Private Ownership and Control	275
IV.7 Increased Mobility	275
IV.8 Economies of Scale	276
IV.9 Flexible Services Location	279
5 TRANSPORT	283
N. R. ELLIOTT and B. FULLERTON
I Introduction: Some Theoretical and Empirical Background (NRE and BF)	283
I.1 Transport Systems	283
I.2 Transport Development, 1950-70	284
I.3 Transport Policies	286
II Inland Transport between Cities and Regions (BF)	288
II.1 Traffic Flows	288
II.2 Trunk Road Development	290
II.3 The Motorway Network	294
II.4 The Modernisation of the Railway System	298
III Local Transport (BF)	306
III.1 The Coordination of Urban Transport Systems	306
III.2 The Changing Pattern of Rural Transport	308
IV Air Transport (BF)	312

	Page
IV.1	Traffic 312
IV.2	The Location and Development of Airports 315
V	Seaports and Water Transport (NRE) 317
V.1	The Hierarchy of Seaports 317
V.2	Seaports and Cargo-handling 321
V.3	Seaports and Industry 326
V.4	The Changing Status and Functions of Seaports 331
V.5	Inland Waterways 335
VI	Retrospect and Prospect (NRE) 337
VI.1	The Transport Revolution 337
VI.2	Pipeline Development 339
VI.3	Complementary or Competitive Transport Media? 340
VI.4	Rationalisation of the Ports 342
6	IN CONCLUSION 350
I	An Assessment 350
II	The Regional Problem 351
III	Population Trends and Prospects 352
IV	Environment and Land Use 354
V	Distribution of Economic Activity 356
VI	Transport 358
VII	A Final Note 359
Index	360